CHAPTER 28

Chapter Summary

Maps of the world in 1914, in 2006, and of multinational corporations in 2000 reflect two of the biggest developments in the 20th century. Massive changes in boundaries resulted from the end of the Ottoman, Austro-Hungarian, and Russian empires. Deep-rooted changes also took place in political forms—monarchies had predominated in 1914—and in social systems. The emergence of multinational companies was the other area of great change. While it is clear that the age of empires is over, defining the period that followed is difficult. In this period, following world history from 1914, it is difficult to achieve a perspective. The history of the period is not over, and discerning the most important ideas is challenging. World War I was a principal turning point in 20th-century world history. European global dominance quickly resulted in the spread of the conflict to most world regions. The massive human losses resulting from the war shattered existing global systems. New, dominating historical forces emerged.

KEY TERMS

Archduke Ferdinand: Austro-Hungarian heir to the throne assassinated at Sarajevo in 1914; precipitated World War I.

Western Front: war line between Belgium and Switzerland during World War I; featured trench warfare and massive casualties among combatants.

Eastern Front: war zone from the Baltic to the Balkans where Germans, Austro-Hungarians, Russians, and Balkan nations fought.

Italian Front: war line between Italy and Austria-Hungary; also produced trench warfare

Nicholas II: Russian tsar; (r. 1894–1917); executed 1918.

Gallipoli: World War I battle, 1915; unsuccessful attempt in defense of the Dardanelles.

Armenian genocide: launched by Young Turk leaders in 1915; claimed up to one million lives.

Submarine warfare: a major part of the German naval effort against the Allies during World War I; when employed against the United States it precipitated American participation in the war.

Armistice: November 11, 1918 agreement by Germans to suspend hostilities.

Treaty of Versailles: ended World War I; punished Germany with loss of territory and payment of reparations; did not satisfy any of the signatories.

League of Nations: international organization of nations created after World War I; designed to preserve world peace; the United States never joined.

Indian National Congress: political party that grew from regional associations of Western-educated Indians in 1885; dominated by elites; was the principal party throughout the colonial period and after independence.

Indian Reforms (1909): provided Indians with expanded opportunities to elect and serve on local and national legislative councils.

Rowlatt Act (1919): placed severe restrictions on Indian civil rights; undercut impact of the Montagu-Chelmsford reforms.

M.K. Gandhi: Western-educated Indian lawyer and nationalist politician with many attributes of an Indian holy man; stressed nonviolent tactics and headed the movement for Indian independence.

Satyagraha: “truth force”; Gandhi’s policy of nonviolent opposition to British rule.

Mustafa Kemal, Ataturk: president of Turkey, (r. 1923–1938); responsible for Westernization of Turkey.

Effendi: prosperous business and professional urban Egyptian families; generally favored independence.

Dinshawi incident: Egyptian protests led to harsh repression that stimulated nationalist sentiment.

Wafd Party: Egyptian nationalist party founded after World War I; led by Sa’d Zaghlul; participated in the negotiations that led to limited Egyptian independence in 1922.

Mandates: governments entrusted to victorious European World War I nations over the colonies of the defeated powers.

Zionism: European Jewish movement of the 1860s and 1870s that argued that Jews return to their Holy Land

Theodor Hertzl: Austrian Zionist; formed World Zionist Organization in 1897; unsympathetic to Arabs and promoted Jewish immigration into Palestine to form a Jewish state.

Balfour Declaration: British promise of support for the establishment of Jewish settlement in Palestine.

W.E.B. Du Bois and Marcus Garvey: African American leaders with major impact on rising African nationalists.

Négritude: literary movement among African Americans and Africans; sought to combat unfavorable stereotypes of African culture and to celebrate African achievements; influenced early African nationalist movements.

OBJECTIVES

1. What were the main causes of World War I?
2. What was the effect of World War I on European colonies?
3. Identify the weapons and technology that led to massive casualties in the war.
4. How did the entry of the United States change the war, both militarily and politically?
5. How the Treaty of Versailles lead to the rise of totalitarianism in Italy and Germany?
6. Were the decolonization movements the result of growing strength among colonial populations or Western weakness?
7. What were the social foundations of mass movement and militant nationalism?
8. What were the unique techniques used by Gandhi in protesting British colonialism?
9. How did nationalism affect Egypt and the Middle East? How was it similar and different from Indian nationalism?
10. What were the foundations of the liberation struggle in Africa?
